

Immerse in languages

Language learning is about complete immersion in the environment. Tutor Time knows it best.

Mandarin and English are becoming the main languages of the world. Learning them well is becoming a decisive factor for the future. But how? Tutor time has an answer for you.

In Hong Kong since 2001, Tutor Time is dedicated to bilingual learning through complete immersion. Not only are kids taught in English and Mandarin by native teachers, but they are also exposed to songs and various media conducted in those languages, picking up syllables and expressions along the way.

The school also focuses on making kids life smart, instead of only book smart. Problem solving skills are as highly prioritized as kids' ability to call for help when needed.

Children are also exposed to various environments, such as the oral hygiene unit, road safety unit, science museum, and beaches. In the light of multiculturalism, festivals from different cultures are celebrated.

Last but not least, children are not alone in having a happy time. Parents are asked to join actively. For instance, they come in at the mystery reader session to share stories with kids. It's exciting for a kid to see his or her mom as a story teller in class.

And that's how Tutor Time teaches: teach, because you really care.
